

Allowing Cellular phone use on an airplane is going to create unnecessary noise and disturbance. There are people who believe that they have the right to talk as loud as they want. In a confined quarter, people should have the right to sleep or read if they choose. If you have people talking on phones and creating a noisy environment, the passengers are going to get annoyed and this would perhaps lead to unnecessary complaints and disputes.

Leave the current phone restrictions in place.